THE ABOLITION PRESS-ITS COURSE-THE CHARGE OF SOUTHERN AGGRESSION REFUTED. Among the many advocates of the traitorous, higher-law doctrines of Sewardism, there is a small class of newspapers, of which the Indianapolis Journal is not the least conspicuous, se influence is more to be deprecated as gerous to the public peace and subversive of the Federal Union than all the wild, fanatical, anti-slavery zealots. They are the more to be dreaded for the pious tone, the smooth words, and seeming patriotism in which are couched their incendiary appeals to the strongest prejudices and most violent passions of the people of the free-soil States. The infamy of crime is increased in proportion to the intelligence and education of its perpetrators. The basest, most heartless, and dangerous of all villains are those, who, possessing a polished address and an elegant refinement of manner, are enabled the more easily and completely to dupe their victims by clothing their wickedness with the specious garb of virtuous intention.

The anti-slavery journals to which we allude are conducted with unusual ability. They avoid be united against the republicans of the South the coarse epithets and abusive denunciations of the less wilv and more intemperate abolition press. With singular adroitness, they have adopted a sort of Jesuitical casuistry, which smiles while it murders. In tones of great humility and apparent mildness, with specious and attractive arguments based upon premises falsely and impudently assumed, they set themselves the sectional parties were arrayed in a contest up as defenders of the right instead of instiga- as formidable and threatening to the Union as tors of the wrong. Deluding the less informed of the advocates of free-soilism into the belief that they are the subjects of a vile and unwarrantable oppression, cunningly intimating that their dearest and most sacred rights have been and are sought to be invaded, they heedlessly Gal to the most inflammable emotions of the human heart; unnecessarily they produce an almost frenzied excitement on the subject of and the South agreed to the extinguishment of slavery; regardless of the ruinous, the deplora- the then existing laws permitting slavery in all ble consequences, they provoke a spirit of reckless and determined hostility on the part of deg. 30 min. the North toward the peculiar institution of the South, which continually augments the difficulty of a rational, just, and peaceable adjust- her; but the very following year the North, rement of our sectional differences.

After a long series of unprovoked aggressions upon the constitutional rights of the people of the hope of attaining immunity from further that it might wish to declare free negroes citiagitation, in a spirit of devotion to the welfare zens, and that then the constitution of Missouri of our common country, had laid her peace- would exclude that class of Northern citizens agreed upon and entered into compacts and Federai Constitution to the citizens of the reserved and carried out by the Abolitionists of posed by Mr. Clay, in which Missouri, in orde the North, still the fanatical supporters of this furious zeal and maddened by the intemperate, tution a clause, in effect, declaring that she incendiary appeals of designing politicians and a reckless Freesoil press, ceased not their aggressive operations. Like the daughters of the horse-leech, their cry continually was, "Give! gale!" and they would not be satisfied.

By a strange perversion of terms, they have come to consider that equality of right was not guaranteed by the Constitution alike to the States of the North and the South; that the free States alone were thereby secured the privilege of growing and extending and appropriating to the use of their people the vast territories of the Union, while to the slaveholding members of the confederacy was accorded only the poor privilege to remain as they were or to grow smaller and fewer if they chose. By a similar curious course of reasoning they have arrived at the conclusion that every compromise was a concession of right on the part of the North, although the South thereby agreed to place a limit to the exercise of her constitutional liberties in consideration of having secured to her the means of enforcing a constitutional right. Thus, when the North had openly and shamelessly disregarded and refused performance of her part of these compacts, and the South, finding them obligatory, either in the letter or spirit, upon no party but herself, seeks to set them aside and come back to the plain provisions of the Constitution, these pharisaical advocates of freesoilism hold up their hands in holy horror, cry out treachery on the part of the South, and proclaim that their privileges have been trampled upon, and that their rights have been invaded.

Let us see how stands this account of broken pledges and defrauded rights. To enter into a omplete detail would occupy more space than columns will permit. We can only allude briefly to some of the most prominent occurren-

Convention, a committee, the majority of which | were breathless with suspense. A dissolution were from free Stales, reported in favor of denying to Congress the power at any period to prohibit the importation of slaves. A subsequent committee, the majority of which were from the slave States, reported in favor of abolishing the importation of slaves after the year 1800, which provision, by the votes of the free States, was extended to 1808. This shows that so far from opposing slavery or contemplating its suppression or even limitation, those States, now numbered among the free States, conspicuous among which were Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Hampshire, insisted upon the continuance of the importation of slaves for eight years after the time desired by the South for its prohibition. At that period the South was in fact more anti-slavery than the North. About the same time, Virginia, in the cession of the Northwest Territory, voluntarily inserted in the grant the anti-slavery clause contained in the ordinance of 1787.

From that period, for several years little is said of slavery in any public record. Gradual emancipation was progressing in the Northern States, unsuited as they were for the profitable employment of slave labor, while the South, groaning under the eight years' additional importation inflicted upon it by the avarice of the North, was exerting every effort to ameliorate its condition in reference to this "evil" entailed upon it, in spite of its remonstrances, by the English government and the action of the Northern States of the Confederacy.

In 1814 a political movement was made in the North. The old Federal party was declining. The Hartford convention was summoned to concert, among other things, measures for its restoration. The main strength of Federalism was in the North. The South was almost united in its republicanism. To create a sectional issue upon which the whole North could was the only hope of the Federalists. An anti-slavery issue was the consequence.

Missouri—a portion of the Louisiana pur-chase—throughout the whole of which French laws recognizing slavery were still in force, sought admission into the Union as a State. Upon the question of her admission, any that has since occurred. The North refused her admission without an anti-slavery clause in her constitution. The South, for the sake of peace and the Union, agreed to a compromise proposed by one of the free States .-By the act of March 6th, 1820, with great reluctance on the part of the North, Missouri was admitted as a slave State, on certain conditions. the rest of the Louisiana purchase north of 36

This constitution, with the conditions required, was submitted to Missouri and agreed to by gardless of the previous compact, endeavored to exclude her from the Union upon a new issue, on account of a clause in her constitution exthe slaveholding States - after the South, with cluding free negroes. The North contended offerings upon the altar of the Union, and from the enjoyment of rights guaranteed by the compromises, which never have been, and it spective States. A terrible contest ensued, would seem were never intended to have been ob- which was only ended by the compromise proto gain admission into the Union, was compelled anti-slavery faction, blinded by their own to humiliate herself by inserting in her constiwould never do anything inconsistent with the Constitution of the Union; and thus was the first violation of the Missouri compromise perpetrated one year after the passage of the act by the North itself.

In the compromise it will be seen that the only concession was on the part of the South. It was forced upon her by the North as the only alternative to an open rupture.

For a few years there was again no further agitation of the slavery question. The Federal party soon became extinct. From 1824 to 1836 the dominant party of the South had again been in the ascendancy. The North once more had recourse to a sectional organization as a means of recovering political power. The machinery of anti-slavery faction was again put in motion. From 1836 to 1850 direct and open aggressions upon the vested rights of the South were attempted. Incendiary appeals were made to the slaves themselves. Various means were employed to incite them to insurrection in many of the Southern States. Attempts were made to amend the Constitution so as to exclude that portion of the representation of the Southern States in Congress which is based upon their slave population and even to abolish slavery throughout the jurisdiction of the United States. In the mean time Texas asked admission into the Union with a constitution recognizing slavery. The Wilmot proviso was introduced, providing that slavery should be forever prohibited from all territory thereafter acquired by the United States. Its adoption was only prevented by the firmness and justice of the Senate. Again the South was forced into a compromise, to agree to the prohibition of slavery in that part of Texas north of 36 30. In this, also, the North was the gainer—the South the of the Union was apprehended. The South, upon the Oregon question, proposed, in effect, the extension of the Missouri compromise line to the Pacific. The North rejected it. The manner of this rejection amounted to a repudiation on her part of the principle embraced in that compromise. Agitation continued. The Texas boundary question was to be settled. Utah and New Mexico were to be erected into Territories. California, with an area immensely disproportionate to her actual population, prematurely organized by a sort of hot-bed process, under the dictation of the Freeoil faction in Congress, sought admissions as a State. The country seemed upon the verge of a civil war. The nation stood aghast with terror. The master spirits of the age, now, alas! no more, threw off the trammels of party. They consulted together to save the Union, to avert the impending storm which was already rocking the foundations of the Republic. The compromise of 1850 was proposed. It was forced upon the South as the only alternative for dissolution. California, with an area sufficient for three large States, was admitted. Texas was dismembered of a portion of her slave territory. The domestic slave trade in the District of Columbia was prohibited. These were to conciliate the North. All that was accorded to the South was an act to provide more effectually for carrying out the constitutional provision as to the rendition of fugitive slaves; and the recognition, in the formation of the territorial governments of Utah and New Mexico, of the principle of non-intervention on the part of Congress as to the establishment or prohibition of slavery in the territories. In all these compromises no encroachments wha ever had been made upon any right of the North; but in every instance slavery had been prohibited where it had previously existed or where there was a question of its previous existence or of its probable adoption, except in the case of Utah and New Mexico, in which the non-intervention principle was recognized.

If the provisions of this compromise had been executed in good faith by the North, it would probably have remained and have continued hereafter to remain a final adjustment of the question. The North however utterly disregarded her part of the compact. The act for the recovery of fugitive slaves was defiantly and shamelessly violated. This law, a component part and one of the chief considerations of the compromise, was nullified in many, and threatened to be in all the free States.

Nebraska and Kansas were to be provided with territorial governments. We do not defend the policy of the abnegation of the Missouri compromise in the Nebraska bill. We have thought and still think it was impolitic and productive of ill consequences .-The Missouri compromise had, however, been effectually repudiated by the North in the debate upon the Oregon bill. The principle of non-intervention had been recognized in the compromise of 1850. The North had proved faithless in the only active part which had been assigned to her in all these adjustments, and cannot, with any justice, complain when the South insists upon recurring to first principles, plants herself upon the simple States Rights doctrine inculcated by the Constitution, and announces her determination to abide by the principle of non-intervention as a corollary of the expresss provisions of that chart of Federal powers.

We are very sorry to see such a paper as the Louisville Journal-so valuable in almost every respect, and conducted with such great ability journal not surpassed by any in the Union, and which we have read, admired, and appreciated so highly for many years, and been so much instructed from—we repeat, that we are sorry to see it apparently endorsing these sentiments of the Hon. We have, however, no doubt of the sincerity of the talented and envilte editor, who stands at the head of it. and erudite editor, who stands at the head of it; and that his motives are of the purest and most unexceptionable character. This we did as matter of news; and as we publish a newspaper we shall continue to publish news matter, without any reference to whether it squares with our opinions and wishes or not. We are as decidedly in favor of the cause of temperance as the Paducah editor can be, but as to the Maine law it will be time enough to give our views on it, when the question on its adoption shall arise in Kentucky. Its constitutionality is a legal question that can only be settled by the courts, and it is likely soon to be tested in New York and Boston.

THE EASTEFN TELEGRAPH LINE DOWN .-This was the announcement made for about the sixteenth time last night in the last three weeks. There is a screw loose somewhere on the Eastern line running through Indiana between this and Cincinnati. The superintendent visits this city about once every three months, so the line has to take care of itself. It seems to us that no exertions are made to get this line up when it is down. The only reason we can find for it is there is another Morse line from this city to Cincinnati, via Maysville, which the telegraphers call the "Wild Cat Line." Both terminate in the National Office. The "Wild Cat" has, however, been leased by a gentleman for several years, and when the other line is down, all private reports are sent through by the "Wild Cat." Not so with the newspaper reports. The Indiana line refuses to make an allowance to the Wild Cat for such reports. The Indiana line receives a weekly salary from each of the papers, and claims the whole of it, reports or no reports. If this thing is permitted to go on the way it has for some time past, it will soon destroy the little confidence that is left for it. We think the energy in its management is not displayed that should be, and we are fully satisfied that the operators in the office here do their duty. The fault is in the offices in Indiana.

We shall expect to receive for our evening paper the reports that should have come last night, and not be subjected to cut them from the Cincinnati papers as has been done heretofore, and which reach here too late for the evening editions. We are entitled to them.

The General Council met last evening to consider the interest of Louisville in connection with the various railroads coming to it.

Gov. Helm, the President of the Louisville and Nashville Bailroad, stated, that if Louisville should endorse the bonds of the Lebanon branch, the road in one year could be constructed to Lebanon. In October the annual report of the Company would be made, and then the policy of the Company would be determined. The President and Directors believed that as soon as the money market should be permanently relieved, the entire road could be put under construction.

R. Apperson, President of the Lexington and Big Sandy Road, made an interesting statement, showing the importance of that road to this city. He stated that if Louisville would subscribe two hundred thousand dollars, and the Louisville and Lexington Railroads the same amount, the Company would have enough to finish their road, with the same guage with the Louisville and Lexington Roads, and Louisville would be in continuous railroad connection, through slave States, with the cities of Richmond, Washington, and Baltimore.

Mr. English, on behalf of the Fort Wayne Road, made application to the city to endorse the Company's bonds in a sum sufficient to purchase the iron for fifty-three miles of the road next to Jeffersonville.

Mr. Dulaney, on behalf of the Memphis Air Line Commissioners, reported that the survey conducted by Mr. Beach was progressing, and that coal could be reached within sixty-five miles of the city.

It is a very great mistake, in our opinion, to suppose that Southern men regard the fugitive slave law as a security to their property; or that they insist on its observance to save themselves from pecuniary loss. This is a delusion. They consider that law as a sort of outside fortification to protect Southern civilization. If its repeal would satisfy the North and arrest all fur ther encroachments, they would consent to it to-morrow.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Southern men regard the fugitive slave law as a law intended to execute for their benefit one of the requirements of the National Constitution. The refusal to pass such a law would have been a refusal to comply with one of the material requirements of the Constitution, and the refusal to execute it by any of the States is a refusal to comply with the supreme law of the land, and is a violation in fact of the spirit and compromises of the Constitution. Although the people of the South do not value the fugitive law as a practical mode of securing their slaves after they have absconded, yet they cannot, nor will remaining unpaid has been settled by note.

THE ADULTERY CASE .- Dr. Charles Grant, THE ADULTERY CASE.—Dr. Charles Grant, charged with adultery, was before the police court yesterday. From the testimony, it appears that a girl named Mary Welsh had been indentured to Charles Billings, of Oxford, by the House of Refuge, and through the inducements of a girl named Mary Jane Williams had been coaxed to leave there, and to come to her house in this city, where she had been living house in this city, where she had been living improperly with Dr. Grant. Dr. Grant stated that he appeared in court without counsel, and that his most material witnesses were absent. On these grounds he asked for a continuance. The court refused, alleging that ample time had been given him to prepare his case. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred and fifty dollars, and to be confined in the county jail for twenty days.

Jonathan P. Broadwell and Mary Jane Williams were fined one hundred dollars and sent to jail for ten days each, on a charge or forni-

Stray Letters Recovered .- Some time since two letters mailed for and received at the Baltimore post-office, were accidentally caet am the waste paper and finally turned up at the paper-mill of Mr. Wilheim, in Baltimore county, to whom they had been sold as waste paper. Post Office Matters .- The Washington Union publishes the following under the head of "Post Office Department:"

Delivery of Letters, &c .- We understand frequent complaints against the department grow out of the fact that postmasters too often, trusting only to their memories, tell persons there is no mail matter for them when a subsequent examination proves that there was. If postmas-ters would adhere strictly to the rule of making a personal search every time letters and papers are inquired for, there would be more despatch in their delivery.

Postmasters' Assistants to be Sworn.—Postmasters at small towns, we learn, are too much in the habit of permitting incompetent members of their families, and other persons in their em-ploy, (none of them being sworn, as required by law) to change the mails, and to perform all the other duties pertaining to their offices. None but sworn assistants should be allowed to have access to the mails.

Loaning Newspapers —Subscribers to newspapers make complaint of the non-arrival of their papers, and in some instances intimate that the loss is occasioned by the fact of the postmasfer loaning to his neighbors the papers of others for perusal. The papers fail to be returned to their proper place, and hence the dissatisfaction. Postmasters are strictly forbidden to loan newspapers that are in their offices for delivery.

THE AMERICAN SHIP THAT TOOK RIFLES TO Russia .- From the Memel correspondent of the London News, under date of May 26, the following is taken:

When the Driver, Commander Gardiner, was sent into Baltish port to serve the vessels lying there with the official notice of the blockade, she found among others an American bark called the Sammy Appleton, of Boston, United States, a fine craft of about 900 tons register, whom she also served with a warning to clear out within six days.

A day or two afterward the Driver, being out cruising, fell in with this very same American, and an officer of the Driver was sent on board to examine the ship's papers. They were found perfectly in order; whereupon the officer demanded to see the bills of lading. The American captain objected to this, and began to make difficulties, which excited the suspicion of the British officer, so he insisted on their production. British officer, so he insisted on their production, which was at length complied with, and from which it appeared that the Sammy Appleton had just landed at Baltish port 50,000 rifles and 10,000 revolvers, besides about 800 cwt. of cotton, as the ostensible part of the cargo.

"Oh, ho, you have been landing rifles, have you, my friend?" quoth the lieutenant. "Now, we'll just search your hold;" and taking the carpenter of the Driver with him, as is usual in such cases, he proceeded to examine and ran-sack the hold of the American ship, but without finding anything suspicious.

"You may thank your stars, my man," said the lieutenant to the skipper, when the search was concluded, "that I found no arms on board your vessel; for, had there been one single rifle more than the number of hands on board, you would have been nabbed, as sure as my name

"Ah, I calculate I was too wide awake for you Britishers this time," said the Yankee, chuckling with delight; "and I reckon I'm on the safe side of the hedge now."

Nothing could be done, and the Driver's boat shoved off. I may add that the Sammy Appleton entered the sound on the 15th of March, and arrived at Baltish port on the 12th of April.

SCIENCE HILL ACADEMY.

For three weeks past, the engrossing interes in this community has been the examination of the three several Female Schools located here, and which are deservedly the pride of our town. The examination at "Science Hill" was last in order of the three, and commenced on Monday last and continued through the succeeding days until a late hour on Thursday night. The concourse of visitors in attendance was immense. They had come up to this annual festival not only from different portions of our State, but we had the pleasure of forming the acquaintance of many gentlemen and ladies who were present from Ohio, Missouri, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Iowa, and South Carolina, all having daughters or wards under instruction at this institution.— They were greeted with songs, and their daughters and wards discoursed sweet sounds upon the piano and guitar, in such manner as to show how thorough had been their instruction in this "divine art." Their teacher threw upon the young ladies, with perfect sang froid, the whole responsibility of the musical entertainment, and manner in which they executed their task fully justified the confidence he reposed in them The examination of the classes was thorough and protracted. The "little ones" in the primary department so sustained themselves as to reflect great credit upon their teachers, and to excite high hopes for their future. The classes in the higher branches elicited the warmest commendation, particularly those in Chemistry, Botany, Algebra, Moral Science, Geometry, Rhetoric, Geology, and English Literature. The class in Chemistry was examined for about two hours or more, and gave demonstrations of a practical knowledge of Chemistry by a great variety of successful and brilliant experiments. The interest evinced on the part of the vast assemblies in attendance was in-

On the 5th inst., in London, Dr. Lushington delivered judgment in the case of the ship James Cheston, an American vessel, which, having been abandoned at sea, was fallen in with about 2,000 miles from land, in a very leaky state, by the Marathon, bound from Bombay to Liverpool. After pumping the vessel, 10 of the crew of the Marathon, out of 23, were placed on board the James Cheston, by whom she was navigated to Liverpool in eighteen days, and reached this port before the Marathon. The value of the property salved was £56,000. Dr. Haggard and Dr. Deane appeared for the salvors; Dr. Adams and Dr. Twiss for the owners. learned judge said that, not holding himself bound by any rule as to the proportion of the value to be given for salving a derelict, he would award £16,000.

Agricultural Division of the Patent Office-Sheep-raising in Texas.—We publish the tollowing statement of Zeno P. Wharton, of Egypt, Wharton county, Texas, for the benefit of sheep-

This is a favored region for sheep. They prosper in every section. The only disadvantage is that they become too fat, which often proves fatal. But this can be prevented by causing the flocks to be driven daily several miles. They are thorsely learn vices was and miles. They are thereby kept vigorous, and the hours of feeding are lessened. A German physician living in my neighborhood was the first to apply this simple remedy. He divided his flock of one thousand sheep into two equal droves, and placed each under the care of a shepherd, whose duty it was to drive them to a certain spot and back again daily. The benefit of this practice was soon apparent, for the deaths in the flock soon ceased. The ewes also bore lambs twice a year; and he was so much pleased with the result of his experiment that he has since paid exclusive attention to sheepraising, being convinced that it is the most certain and profitable pursuit in Texas.

Neither the fleece, flesh, nor size of half-blood Merino sheep is injuriously affected by bringing them from the other States into this. On the contrary, their flesh is much improved. They also increase very rapidly.

The Plum Weevil, or Curculio .- We make the following extract from the report of Mr. Townend Glover on the curculio, which will be published in the forthcoming agricultural report of the Patent Office:

The plum weevil, or curculio (rhynchænus nenuphar), is one of the most destructive insects that the horticulturist has to fear, not to plums alone, but to cherries, nectaries, and apples, which are indiscriminately attacked; and in the more southern States peaches also suffer much from the larvæ of a weevil of this kind, of simi-lar habits and shape, if not identically the same. The perfect curculio is about two-tenths of an inch in length, of a dark brown color, with a spot of yellowish-white on the hind part of each wing-case. The head is furnished with a long, curved snout or bill, with which it is enabled to bore into the unripe fruit by means of jaws placed at the end of this bill. The wing-cases, which are ridged, uneven, and humped, cover two transparent wings, by which the perfect weevil is enabled to fly from tree to tree; but, when these wing-cases are closed, the back appears without any suture or division, which has led to the very erroneous idea among farmers that the insect cannot fly. When disturbed, or shaken from the tree, it is so similar in appearance to a dried bud that it can scarcely be distinguished, especially when feigning death, which it always does when alarmed. As soon as the plums are of the size of peas the weevil commences the work of destruction by making a semi-circular cut through the skin with her long, curved snout, in the apex of which cut she deposites a single egg. She then goes to another plum, which is treated in a similar manner, until she has exhausted her whole stock of eggs.

The grubs, which are hatched by the heat of the sun, immediately eat their way to the stone in an oblique direction, where they remain gnawing the interior until the fruit is weakened and diseased, and by this treatment falls from the tree. The grub, which is a small, yellow-ish, footless, white maggot, then leaves the fallen fruit, enters the earth, changes into a pupa, and in the first brood comes to the surface again in about three weeks, as a perfect weevil, to propagate its species and destroy more fruit. It has not yet been decided whether the latest generation of the weevil remains in the ground all winter in the grub or in the pupa state. Dr. E. Sanborn, of Andover, Massachusetts, asserts, however, that the grubs, after having entered the earth, return to the surface in about six wasks as perfect weavily which must be a surface to the surface in about six weeks as perfect weevils, which must remain hidden in crevices until spring. The most pop-ular opinion is that they remain in the larva or pupa state. The worm or grub is often found in the knots or excrescences which disfigure and destroy plum trees, and has been wrongfully accused of being the cause of these swellings; but it is highly probable that the weevil, finding in the young knots an acid somewhat similar to that of the unripe fruit, merely deposits its eggs therein as the nearest substitute for the real plum.

Some of the remedies recommended for preventing the ravages of these insects are actually absurd, such as tying cotton round the trees in order to prevent them from ascending, when it is known that they are furnished with wings, and fly from tree to tree with the greatest ease. Among the remedies at present in use one is to cover the fruit with a coating of white-wash, mixed with a little glue, applied by means of a syringe; another is to spread a sheet upon the ground under the tree, and then jar the pal branches suddenly with a mallet covered with cloth, so as not to bruise the bark, when read in the presence of an andience of at least the perfect insects will fall into the sheet and feign death, and may be gathered and destroyed. Hogs are sometimes turned into plum orchards, where, by eating the fallen and diseased fruit, they materially lessen the evil. Coops of chickens placed under the trees, and the branches often shaken, the insects fall, and are eagerly seized and devoured. All fallen fruit should be gathered up several times in the course of the season and burnt, or given to hogs, or destroyed in some other way. By so doing, thousands of the grubs which have not yet left the plums are destroyed; but, as yet, no thoroughly practical remedy has been made public, and the above are merely mentioned as being useful in small gardens containing only a few trees.

INTERESTING EVENT .- A few days since, the Emperor and the Empress of France, when ta-king their evening drive, unattended by any suite, came opposite the Chateau de Vincennes. alighting from their carriage, their Majesties entered the court of the castle, when her Majesty was immediately recognized by a number wounded soldiers recently returned from the Crimea. Her Majesty, who upon every occassion, like our own Queen, evinces the deepest sympathy with distress, and more particularly at the present time with the wounded soldiers of her brave army, learned from each the nature of his wounds, the occasions upon which they were received, some of which little extraordinary, and highly characteristic of the devotion and daring of the French troops. Among the wounded men was one whose face was almost completely black. Her Maje ty asked the man the cause of his very sombre color, when he replied, that while engaged in mining approaches an explosion took place, by which he was thrown into the air and severely burned. After hearing from each soldier the account of his "hair breadth escape," the Emperor ordered the colored of the col peror ordered the colonel of the regiment make out a list of the names of the 20 men who formed this interesting group, and a statement of what they desired to obtain. The report was accordingly presented to the Emperor, and the wish of each of the wounded soldiers was the wish of each of the wounded soldiers was generously granted. Five of the men asked for crosses of the Legion of Honor, 13 for medals, one for a place in the Imperial household, and one for the lucrative post of the Bureau detabac. A gratuity of 100f. to each was the benevolent gift of the Empress.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] THE CITY OF JEFFERSONVILLE AND HER PUBLIC DEBT.

LOUISVILLE, June 26, 1855.

GENTLEMEN: As many of your readers are interested in the condition and welfare of the city of Jeffersonville, and especially in reference to her public debt, will you have the kindness to publish the enclosed "exhibit," drawn from official sources, and believed to be entirely accurate; also the official statement of the clerk of said city in reference to the same subject, as well as to the legality of the bonds lately issued to the Fort Wayne and Southern Railroad Company, and much oblige, AN INDIANIAN.

Exhibit of the position, condition, resources, and Exhibit of the position, condution, resources, and indebtedness of the city of Jeffersonville, Ind.

The city of Jeffersonville, in the State of Indiana, is situated on the Ohio river, at the "falls," opposite Louisville, Ky., and is organized under the general law for the incorporation of cities in the State of Indiana, approved June 18, 1852.

Its location is believed to be unsurpassed by any city on the Ohio river, having a natural protection against the floods, which so frequently inundate portions of nearly all the cities situated on this river, and with an excellent landing at, and for several miles above, the city. It is surrounded by a country of great fertility, and is the only point on the Ohio river above the falls from which a railroad can be constructed to the interior with low grades and at small cost. The entire absence of hills and other obstructions to the approach of the river at this point must make it the grand foot of all the Northern and Southern railways traversing that region of country; and the water power afforded by the falls of the Ohio is perhaps without a parallel in the United States.

The entire city debt, for all purposes whatever, does not exceed $300,000, and this includes the $60,000 of bonds issued to the Fort Wayne and Southern Railroad Company, in bother which companies the city owns stock equal to the amount of bends issued, and also real estate worth over $50,000, besides to the $60,000 of bonds are state worth over $50,000, besides to the $60,000 of bonds are to be expended in the completion of the Fort Wayne and Southern Railroad, the construction of 117 miles of which, ready for the superstructure, is now under contract, and more than two-thirds completed.

It will be observed, therefore, that the creation of this debt, so far from impoverishing the city, must greatly redound to lie prosperity, and facilitate the discharge of her financial obligations. As an evidence of, this, it may be remarked, that, since the completion of the Jeffersonville road (1850), the taxabl indebtedness of the city of Jeffersonville, Ind.

able property of the cloy has lacked and will no doubt double the ratio of increase, but, even at the same ratio as for the last five years, the taxables, before the lapse of one half the time the outstanding bonds have to run, will amount to over $28,-000,000; and the interest will be fully paid by a tax of 7-10ths of a mill to a dollar; while, at that date, upon the above sum, arate of, assessment equaling that of 1824 would be sufficient to liquidate the entire indebtedness of the city in a single year.

The interest on the bonds, and all other claims against the city, have ever been promptly paid, and there is now a considerable unexpended balance in the city treasury.

There is no law authorizing the city to increase her present debt, except for strictly corporation purposes, and then only

There is no law authorizing the city to increase her present debt, except for strictly corporation purposes, and then only upon the written petition of three-fourths of the legal voters of the city; and, even in reference to the existing debt, the charter expressly requires that the Council shall annually levy and collect a tax, in addition to the ordinary receme, sufficient to pay the whole interest; also a sum not less than one-half mill on the dollar, to be est apart for the payment of the principal, and to no other purpose whatever.

The followis gare the sections of the charter having a bearing upon this subject, and also the act authorizing the issue of the $20,000 of bonds:

Sec. 56. "No incorporated city under this act shall have power to borrow money, or incur any dobt or liability, unless three-fourths of the legal veters shall petition the Common Council to contract such debt or loan; and for any dobt created thereby, the Common Council shall add to the tax duplicate of each year, successively, a levy sufficient to pay the aunual debt or loan, with an addition of not less than five cents on the hundred dollars, to create a sinking fund for the liquidation of the principal thereof."

Sec. 79. "For the purpose of creating a sinking fund for the gradual extinguishment of the bonds and funded debt of any city coming under this act of incorporation, the council thereof shall auntally levy and collect, in addition to other taxes shall amany levy and collect, in addition to other taxes shall annually levy and collect, in addition to other taxes shall annually levy and collect, in the shall be paid into the trasury, and applied, by the direction of the Common Council, to the extinguishment of the bonds and dobt aforesaid, and to not the purpose whatever. There shall also be levied and collected annually, an additional tax sufficient to pay the whole in terest of the public debt due from such city."

Sec. 47. "All taxes upon real estate shall, from the time the tax duplicate is completed, be a lien thereou to the same extent as a judgment of a court of record, and shall have preference to all private charges upon the same; and all taxes on personal property shall have preference over all private demands."

streets and wharf, would equal the area of fifteen acres, and are worth at least $3.0,000.

The income of the city heretofore, from all sources, other than that of taxation, has been inconsiderable—probably not exceeding $1.500 per annum, for even the last year; but from the fine condition of the recently enlarged wharf, hereafter a greater sum than this may be expected from this source alone, per annum.

In the year 1849, the city subscribed to the capital stock of the Jefferson ville Railrond Co. $100,000. of which they paid in cash, by taxation in the year 1849, '50, '51, and 1852, '$40,000, and for the remaining $60,000, city bonds were issued, bearing 6 per cent. interest, maturing January 1, 1865. The interest upon these bonds has been promptly paid as it became due, up to the present date. The city now owns $60,000 of stock in the Jeffersonville Railroad Company, received in exchange for the $60,000 bonds issued to said company. Thirty thousand dollars of bonds are outstanding, issued for the improvement of the wharf and funding public debt; and there is a floating debt of ten thousand on account of city improvements.

The total debt of the city is therefore $200,000, and including the large of the second of the company is the company of the second of the second of the company is the company of the second of the company of the second of the second of the second of the company of the second of the sec provements.

The total debt of the city is, therefore, $300,000, including the bonds issued to the Fort Wayne and Southern Railroad Company of $200,000.

Hereafter, under the city charter, no debt can be incurred by the city for any other than municipal purposes, which must be a guarantee that the city will ever be good for its debts.

The foregoing statistics and facts are evidenced by the papers and records of the city in my office, except as opinions are expressed.

ELI McCalley, clerk of Jeffersonville, to-wit:

I. Eli McCalley, clerk of the city of Jeffersonville, do certify that said city of Jeffersonville di subscribe two hundred thousand dollars to the capital stock of the Fort Wayne and Southern Railread Company, upon the written petition of three-fourths of the legal voters thereof (and largely exceeding this), under the provisions of the fifty-sixth section of the general act of incorporation of cities, upon the supposition it was authorized so to do by said section. This subscription was made in the menth of July, 1853.

Subsequently, on the 2th day of April, 1855, the said city of Jeffersonville, by their mayor and city clerk, issued and delivered two hundred thousand dollars of coupon, six per cent, bonds of said city, maturing in twenty-five and thirty-five years, and payable in the city of New York, under resolutions of the common council of said city, in compliance with a centractbetween said city and the Fort Wayne and Southern Railrad Company, and in conformity with the provisions of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, approved the 21st day of February, 1855, entitled "An act to enable cities which have subscribed for stocks in companies incorporated to construct works of public utility, under the fifty-sixth section of the general act for the incorporation of cities, and to ratify the same, all of which will appear from the records in the city clerk's office of said city.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said city, this 9th day of May, 1855.

CONCERT IN CHRIST CHURCH .- We are happy to inform the lovers of good music that the desightful concert given in Christ Church last week will be repeated in the same place on next Monday evening-the proceeds to be appropriated to the completion of Grace Church. As the price of the tickets has been put down to 50 cents, we have no doubt that the church will be crowded. Tickets can be obtained at the music stores and Mr. S. Ringgold's book-

The Rivers .- The river at this point was at a stand yesterday, and the Simonds reports eight feet to Cairo. No change is reported in the Upper Mississippi. The Illinois has risen twenty inches at Peoria; which rise had not reached the mouth when the Brunette came out of the river yesterday: The last arrivals from the Misreport four and a half feet on the principal bars, and rising from the mouth of the Osage Suicide.—G. W. Rosa, who was sent to the penitentiary at the present term of our circuit court for stealing money and goods from the Bramble House, and who escaped from prison a few days after he put there was recaptured at Independence in Warren county, Ind., yesterday afternoon. Mr. Yeager, and two others, started for this city with him in a wagon, and while on their way here stopped at a farm-house a few miles below town, to water their horses. Rosa complained of being unwell, and said he would take a morphine powder. He took a white powder from between the leaves of a Bible he had with him, and pouring it into a cup of water, drank it. The party started on and in a few minutes the poison—for it was arsenic he had intentionally taken—began to work, and no medical assistance being at hand, the poor wretch soon breathed his last. He was trought to this city, and buried by the county to-day.

Lafayette Courier.

Horrible-Children Killed and Eaten by Hogs. A Mrs. Abashaba Ellafield, wife of Thos. Ellafield, became deranged about twenty days ago, and left home, taking with her two small chil-dren, one aged about two years and the other about four years. Search was made by her friends through the woods for a space of twenty days, when she was found in a frightfully reduced condition, and the two children were found eaten up by the hogs. They had evident-ly been killed, as the skull bones of each had been broken. The maniac mother is now in charge of a friend a couple of miles from this city, in Perry township.

FATAL AFFRAY .- We learn that on Saturday a difficulty occurred between Geo. Secrest. marshal of the town of Greencastle, and Dr. Stockton, a respectable physician of the same place, which led to an affray, in which the latter was killed, and the former seriously though not fatally injured. The story as related to us of a brother of Dr. Stockton's, in a row with a son of Mr. Secrest, threw a "weight" at the latter, we believe injuring him somewhat, for which Mr. Secrest arrested him and had him fined. Some little time after, the Dr. encountefing Mr. Secrest in a store, used some severe language about the affair, and a quarrel ansued.

The Doctor, as we were told, struck Mr. Secrest one or two violent blows on the head with a cane, when the latter drew a large knife and stabbed the Doctor in the breast, inflicting a mortal wound. He lingered some hours, was dead when the train passed Greencastle yesterday morning.

Mr. Secrest, it was thought for a while was also fatally injured, but he was reported yesterday to be in a fair way of recovery. This is a most deplorable affair, both being men of good character and standing, and, we believe, both men of families. So far as we can now remember, it is the first occurrence of the kind for some years .- Indianapolis Journal.

EVENING BULLETIN.

QUITMAN ON CUBA .- That remarkable fillibustero, Gen. Quitman, lately delivered himself of a speech at Jackson, Mississippi, in which, speaking of the acquisition of Cuba, he said there were three ways by which it might be obtained: First, by purchase; secondly, by public conquest; and, thirdly, by private conquest. He said the first had been tried and failed; the second would not answer; and that he was in favor of the third mode.

Private conquest is a species of conquest not treated of in the works on national law Private conquest sounds very much like public stealing. The highwayman who robs one on the road, or the burglar who breaks into a man's house, and takes from thence the property of the owner, has achieved a private conquest. Taking what don't belong to you is called stealing, unless the thing taken is very valuable, and then it is private conquest. So says Quitman on moral philosophy.

SCALES FOR MOWERS AND REAPERS .- We have received from Col. B. P. Johnson, secretary of the New York State Agricultural Society, the following Scales, which have been adopted by the State Agricultural Societies of New York and Pennsylvania for the aid of judges on trials of reaping and mowing machines throughout the country, in carrying out a complete analysis of the various points of merit of the different machines now before the public. The general adoption of such a scale on trials the present season will prove of essential service to farmers wishing to choose the best. One machine may stand high on one point of the scale, while in others it may be very deficient, and it is only by a comparison of the whole by some universal rule that the real value of each can be arrived at. This plan, too, will prove an important aid to inventors and manufacturers in remedying certain points in their machines which may be rated below the established standard and thus bring them to the highest point of perfection.

Farmers who may hereafter wish to purchase machines, and those who will likely be called upon to act as judges, would do well to preserve this table for future reference and comparison with the published reports of the different machines which may be in market.

SCALES FOR REAPERS AND MOWERS. marks upon the Scale.—A Scale of Points is necessary in trials of Reapers and Mowers for three reasons: 1st, that a correct decision may be obtained; 2d, that the grounds of the awards may be understood by those who wish to buy machines; and 3d, that the awards of different machines; and 3d, that the awards of different committees may be understandingly compared. It is idle for any committee, no matter how capable of judging clearly and correctly, to jump at a decision in the aggregate between the claims of rival Reapers—so many of which are established as good machines, some of them perhaps nearly equal in all important respects, and no one of which is best on every point. A comparison must be instituted between them, and a careful decision had upon each specific point. Having a scale of these various points, with their relative value fairly apportioned, arrive at a pretty correct award.

Such have been the character of most of the trials that the decisions have little weight. The premiums at one trial are given to certain machines, and in the adjoining county or State the verdict is reversed and other machines declared best. None of the details upon which judgment was formed being known, it is impossible for a farmer not at the trials to get any aid from them in selecting a reaper. Indeed, the variety of verdicts given in this blind manner tends to confuse him; whereas, had the decisions been given upon each specific point, he could, by comparison of the reports, decide which Reap er was best suited to his circumstances.

One scale was prepared of 100, but to give the points lowest in importance a sufficiently high number to mark the relative differences in machines, the sum total must run far beyond

It is important for farmers to have such machines used in trials as are ordinarily built and sold to them. They do not want to be misled by a machine of extra cost and finish taking the highest prize. They want to see the ma-chines tried that they have got to buy. There-fore let all societies introduce a rule to this effect, and, if any manufacturer is found trying to work underhandedly or unfairly on this or other points, he should be excluded from the trial and the award, at the judgment of the committee.

The above scales are not offered to the public as being perfect, but as being an improvement upon any plan as yet proposed. It has re-ceived the careful consideration of farmers well acquainted with machines and with public trials, and has been altered so that it meets the united approval of leading persons in the agri-cultural societies of five different States.

It is hoped it will be generally used this years and that committees and others interested will send reports of their decisions and communicate their views and any alterations they may suggest to Colonel B. P. Johnson, Secretary State Agricultural Society, Albany N. Y., and to Dr. A. L. Elwyn, Secretary State Agricultural Society, Philadelphia, Pa Norz.—Judgment being formed by the committee relative to each machine on each specific point according to the following scales, the machine whose aggregate reaches the highest No. is the victor, 300 being the sum total of a perfect Reaper, 212 of a perfect Mower, and 550 of a perfect combined machine.

300 To determine the relative value of points correctly, they should, as far as practicable, be estimated by dollars and cents, though several cannot be arrived at in that manner. As a matter of convenience, those are put into the scale that can be estimated by money, at a unit for each dollar.

1st Point, "Cost."—This I get at by suppo-sing a machine good for five years' wear, which the highest priced ones certainly are-the difference in price between the cheapest and the highest priced is $35. This amount divided among the five years gives $7, and the interest on $35 is $2 10, making $9 10. This, therefore, is put at 9 in the scale, being a unit for each dollar.

The 2d point should read, simplicity of con-struction to do its work." The more a machine does, the more machinery may there be to do it. A Self-Raker, and even a Binder, may be just as simple in its structure as some Hand-Raker, considering what it does; and to make judgment fair and equitable between them, the object and work must be fairly considered as well as construction.

This point is not of great importance—those following should control. For if a machine is easily managed, durable, &c., it is little matter about a piece or two more of gearing or frame.

The 3d point, "Facility of management, including time and room required for turning," is so similar to the 9th point—rapidity of operation-that one of these must be set low, or too much weight will be given them.

The 4th point, "Durability and Reliability," is of much more importance. Any machine, however good in other respects, is an immense evil to the farmer if it fails in time of need. Having relied upon it to save his grain, and it proving worthless, and having made no other provisions, he is obliged to hire harvesters at largely increased cost, if indeed he can get at all, or perhaps submit to the loss of a valuable crop, wholly or in part. Opinions would vary greatly as to the number this should be set at.

The 5th point, "Adaptation to varied and uneven surfaces, and to cutting at different heights," should be set much lower than the previous

The 6th point, "Freedom of the knife from clogging," seems to merit much consideration though not so important in reaping as in mow Some machines, it is known, choke or clog by fibres being drawn in the opening of the fingers in cutting damp or wet grain. This is particularly the case where there is much undergrowth. It is important to be able to cut when the dew is on, because it is cooler, and the grain shatters less. But if the knife content of the state of the stat stantly clogs, little progress can be made.

Thus far it has been impossible to find data by which to estimate the relative value of the points, and opinions will perhaps vary very much concerning them. But, in the others, we can get sound data to base them upon, and, though in carrying out the estimates some come to high figures, they are not therefore to be re-jected or considered wild.

The 7th point, "Motive power, or power required for a given amount of work." The difference in team required to work any two Reapers is never more than one pair of horses—the value of which for a harvest will vary consider—the interpretable in the sections. ably in different sections. Large farmers who have plenty of horses would only consider the have plenty of horses would only consider the cost of an extra pair as the worth of the extra grain they had to feed during the reaping Probably putting this at the same as the 1st point, "cost," will be fair and certainly high enough, particularly as the inconvenience of using an extra pair has its weight in the estimate of 3d point.

The 8th point, "Manual labor in Raking." To establish the value of this point, it is first to be considered that there is considerable difference between hand-raking Reapers in the ease with which grain can be raked from them. It would not be too much to allow 10 to estimate the difference between them.

Then a Self-Raker saves a hand—and that, too, at the very hardest of work—over the best hand even an inferior committee could hardly fail to Raker. As wages were last year, and will be the present, this hand in harvest with his board costs at least $2 a day. If a little less than that in some sections, it will be enough more in others to make it equal this and more too. The wheat harvest will last from 8 to 12 days—say wheat narvest will last from 8 to 12 days—say 10—and oats, rye, barley, &c., say 5 days. The latter is perhaps a day or two longer than Southern farmers would generally have grain for, but it is too little by 5 days for the North, so that 15 days' work would be a moderate allowance, making the saving $30. Something more should be added to this, because of the excessive labor that is saved, one hand being cessive labor that is saved, one hand being hardly sufficient to work all day long, and day after day in raking off. For this 5 is added.

Add the previous 10, giving 45 for this 5 is added.

Add the previous 10, giving 45 for this point.

The 9th point, "Rapudity, or amount of harvesting in a given time." Suppose Reapers cost on an average, with transportation, \$140, and are worn out in 5 years; that is \$28 a year; the interest is \$8 40. The team, 2 pair, \$18. The Rake \$30, and driver \$20. The latter not haven years and the standard ways. ing as hard work and a cheaper hand answer-ing, his labor is estimated a little less than the raker. The total is \$104 40. The narrowest Reaper cuts  $4\frac{1}{2}$  feet, and the widest 6 feet (with a very few exceptions not necessary to be al-lowed for), making a difference of one quarter.

Then one quarter of the above figures would give the value of this point at 26.

The 10th point, "Manner of leaving the grain for binding." More difference than one hand can be made in binding, by the gavels being well or believed. well or badly laid. Between the best and worst machine to rake from, there is in the manner of depositing the grain at least a difference of a hand and a half, costing for the 15 days $45, making this point therefore 45.

The 11th point, "Saving of grain in cutting, binding, and handling, and in the stack." Those who have compared the working of different Reapers know that some will save largely as compared with others, and it is very easy make a difference of several bushels in each day's work of 10 to 15 acres, even to the amount of a bushel or more an acre, particularly if the grain is over ripe.

There is, 1st, the loss in not cutting clean; 2d, shattering by the reel and in cutting; 3d, shat-tering in raking off; 4th, loss from scattered grain being badly raked off; 5th, loss in hand-ling the sheaves, the grain not having been raked straight, and consequently being imperfectly secured in the sheaf; and 6th, liability to injury in the stack by the weather if the heads are not all laid one way in the raking.

These losses, though depending much upon the hands, will all be found to exist, and greatly to vary between different machines with good Some of them are trifling, yet in the aggregate they make a point of much more value than any other.

Suppose the difference of loss in extreme cases is only half a bushel to the acre-that 120 cases is only hair a bushel to the acre—that 120 acres of wheat and 60 acres of other grains are cut, which would be twelve acres per day for the season of 15 days. Thus there is saved 60 bushels of wheat, worth say $1 per bushel, and 30 bushels of oats, barley, rye, &c., worth say 40 cents, making the saving $72. Though 72 seems at first to be large for this point, it ought to be sat higher without here. to be set higher rather than lower.

If this scale is at all correct, there is, of course, great difference in machines. If the 40 or 50 varieties invented, and of which some 30 are more or less in use, could all be brought together, some would run very low in the scale while others would go high. Of the points in the scale 206 (less 10 in the 8th point of raking)=196, are estimated in money, and represent $196. In the other points (2 to 6 inclusive) the size of the state of the sive) there is a difference in money value of say only $14 a season, making $210. Some of the reapers would not in thorough trials reach 60 on these points, while others would reach 160 and over, thus showing there may be a difference in reapers of over $100 in a single season's use.

With so large a difference in reapers, and the demand so rapidly increasing, and it being difficult—almost impossible—for farmers to compare them themselves, it is not strange that so many attempts should be made to test them by farmers united in their State and county socie ties. Yet how few of the numerous trials have as yet resulted in any permanent good! Where fore this abortive result in efforts which have cost so much in time, labor, and money to cieties, committees, reaper-builders, and public generally? Is not the failure chiefly owing to the want of a systematic plan to insure thoroughness and guard against mistakes? If so a good scale of this kind will correct the and it is useless to go into trials without something of the sort.

After the full remarks upon the Reaping Scale, it is unnecessary to add much here. The flan is easily understood. The first four points are unaltered. The 5th in reaping is divided, making the 5th and 6th, and increasing the ag-gregate 10. The 7th is largely increased, be-cause of the difficulty and importance of get-ting machines that will cut without choking. The 8th is not altered, though it might perhaps be reduced. The 9th is reduced 6, because of reduction in expense of working the Mower as compared with the Reaper. The 10th is also reduced, for, though an important point, there is not the difference in Mowers in the manner of leaving the grass, to make a higher amount ne-cessary to fairly compare them. Nearly all leave the grass spread perfectly.
